ON THEIR WAY: Trainman George Bancroft, genial proprietor of the rear car on the 7:41 to the Junction ("Let's give them a good day now, men. And remember, haircuts Thursday."), punches Richard K. BIRDS OF PASSAGE

Or, Why Is a Commuter? It was long past 10 p.m. one blizzardy night this January, so it is told, when the last straggling Princeton commuter to New York stumbled wearily onto the platform of the little station which meets all trains at the foot of University Place.

After four hours of stop-and-little-go travel through the howling storm, he was home. He was giddy from exhaustion and hunger, but he was home.

Almost home, that is. He struggled through the snow to an igloo-shaped mound of white covering his tiny "station car." Fifteen minutes of scooping with numbed hands, while visions of an extra-arid martini danced through his head, and he was able to wedge into the front seat, almost desperately eager to go the last lap for the first sip. Maybe, he thought, his wife could even put a small steak in the broiler for him.

But, the story goes on, his car failed to share his impatient urge. One screech from the starter and then nothing but silence. Battery dead. And no taxis, no other cars around. Only snow — and the cold, dark night.

. . . And So to Bed. He left his unfriendly car and, head down, plowed his way to the Princeton Inn. There the night clerk registered for him (his fingers were so stiff from cold he couldn't hold the pen).

He asked to be called at 6:30 the next morning, went to his room and phoned his wife. Then, too tired even to care about his hunger, he fell down on the bed and went almost immediately into deep sleep. At least he was almost home, he thought with some satisfaction as he drifted off. And he could always eat a breakfast-for-two in the morning.

Perhaps the most unusual aspect of this Princetonian's struggle against weather, distance, off-schedule trains, an unsympathetic car and gnawing hunger is that, to his fellow commuters, it didn't seem unusual in the slightest. Each one of them had, in his own way, faced a similar moment of truth and had come off the victor — not once, but many times.

"Commuters are called the commandos of commerce," alliterates one Princeton resident who has been at it for twenty years. "We have to be. If we aren't always ready for anything, that anything is bound to occur. Resourcefulness, stamina, patience — without them, you might as well turn in your ticket."

A Railroad Is To Ride. Not long after dawn these days lights wink on in some thousand homes in and around town. Reveille has sounded for Princeton's army of commuters who, Monday through Friday, go forth to work in some fair, distant city until well after dark, they come riding home again — only to head out on another's day's turnabout in less than 12 hours.

How do they get there and back? About 800 Princetonians commute to New York via the sturdy, old Pennsylvania. Another group, maybe 40 in all, takes the Pennsy to Philadelphia.

Others, mostly bankers and brokers, ride the Reading — the equipment is somewhat more chi-chi, but the choice of trains is small: one in the morning in, one in the evening out.

Miss that evening train, Reading fanciers say, and you've had it. The next one leaves in 24 hours.

Some hop on buses to New York, a few drive miles to otherwise unreachable locations and one commuter likes to fly his small plane to work, whenever the wind is right. It still takes him the usual three hours a day to make the trip — an hour each way to and from airports by car and taxi, half an hour each way in the air, "but I still would rather fly," he says, adding: "More expensive, but less crowded."

The Long Voyage Home. The Princeton commuter, like commuters everywhere, works hard at making his traveltime fit his psyche. After all, if he spends (and he probably does) three hours a day on a 100-mile round-trip five days a week for 48 weeks of the year, he's putting in 720 hours annually and covering some 24,000 miles. No wonder he will move heaven and earth and sometimes even the district passenger traffic manager to get what he wants.

And sometimes he succeeds. For instance, let's examine the case of one long-time commuter between Princeton Junction and Philadelphia, a man in whom still burns a hery belief that a railroad should offer service as well as rails and some kind of conveyance over them.

For years he has taken the 7:51 a.m. train from the Junction (unromantically labelled Train 201 on time-tables, but known as "The Severely Limited" to many of its patrons because of its usual make-up: countless freight cars, three old coaches. At night he leaves Philadelphia on the 5 p.m. Train No. 220.

Our man doesn't smoke, and he rides in the one car where no smoking is permitted. Of course there are always some in the car who decide to smoke anyway.

The Chase. But they don't get away with it. The first, faint whiff of smoke sets his keen nostrils quivering like a bird dog's on point, and his head turns like a radar antenna.

When he spots the offender, he charges down on him, inquires about the man's ability to read the "NO SMOKING" sign at the end of the car, firmly asks him to put out the cigarette. It's been said that one admonition from this one commuter is worth ten government surveys in scaring a smoker away from tobacco.

His finest hour unquestionably came one day when, on the track of a hidden puffer in the off-limits car, he got his man. It was the conductor. Yet in all this anti-smoking campaign there is one joker: Our friend doesn't mind other people smoking, it's just that the trip is more lively for him if he acts as a self-appointed vigilante.

New York Special. According to an uncertain combination of legend and history, Princeton's first commuter was Moses Taylor Pyne, town and gown benefactor and New York banker. For Mr. Pyne's use, and for anyone else who wanted to spend a day "in town," there was a non-stop, two-car steam train which left Princeton at 8 a.m. for New York and returned at 6:30 p.m.

Dean of Princeton commuters at present, in name as well as rank, is Dean Mathey, New York financier and University trustee, who has been a Pennsylvania steady since the early 1920's. Runner-up to Mr. Mathey probably is Lewis B. Cuyler, also a banker and a 1924 graduate of Princeton. Both of them have logged nearly a million commuter-miles, according to estimates.

But it wasn't until the 1930's that commuting to and from Princeton became a way of life for many rather than a few. Richard K. Paynter, Jr., board chairman of New York Life and a commuter from Princeton since 1931, tells why:

"I came in with electrification," is the way he explains it. When the Pennsylvania converted to electricity, it brought New York half an hour nearer in running time, and the little band of pilgrims to Princeton started to grow, and grow, and grow.

No Greener Pastures. Nearly every commuter at sometime, probably when his homeward train stops for no apparent reason in some dark New Jersey wasteland, dreams of quitting the struggle. "If I could only find a nice little business right in Princeton . . ." he muses.

Well, for those who dream such idle fancies, here's a word from a typical ex-commuter, or a "reformed migrant worker" as he calls himself:

"Quit dreaming, Jack." He has reduced his daily round-trip distance from home to office by about 98 miles, or by approximately 176 minutes.

But that's all he's reduced, he says, except for his income (down one-third) and travel costs (down to nil from about $1,000 a year). As a commuter he was required to put in something less than 35 hours a week at his desk.

As an ex-commuter who has since been in two "nice, little businesses" in Princeton, he says: "A country mouse usually has to work much harder and longer than a city mouse because there's less cheese to go around. Sixty hours a week seems to be minimum in Princeton if you want to get your share."

He likes the work and his liberation from day - coach fatigue. But, even to the exhausted man caught at the station in the blizzard, he warns: "I may be a reformed migrant worker, but only because I'm no longer migrant. As a worker — well, I now know what work really is.

"In Princeton, it's just double what it was when I worked in the city. Better not try it unless you're dead sure, as I was, that it's what you want and what you can manage. Otherwise, keep smiling and remember 'The Pennsy's Mightier than the Sorehead.'"

STREET PLANS DEBATED

In Walnut Lane Area. Revised plans for the Walnut Lane property where the Borough wants to build its new school were laid before the Township Planning Board at a special meeting Tuesday night.

No decision was reached. The Board will consider the plans again at its regular meeting on March 9.

The new plans call for:

- A re-aligned Franklin Avenue to be constructed before the present Franklin is closed off. The new route would turn north, go behind the houses on the west side of Linden Lane, make a sharp turn west along the boundary line between the Borough School and Westminster Choir College land, and emerge on Walnut Lane 375 feet north of the present Franklin-Walnut intersection.
- A continuation of Guyot Avenue through from Walnut to Linden Lane. Both streets would be paid for jointly by the Board of Education and the present property owners.

About 70 persons, including the entire Borough Board of Education and the Borough superintendent of schools, attended the hearing. At its close, Frank P. Ritchie, lawyer for Westminster Choir College, stressed the cooperation that had prevailed among all parties to the question, but there was tension in the room during the two and one-half hour session.

Most of the Township residents who spoke expressed concern about traffic and parking. In response to one question, Gerald Breese, Planning Board chairman said, "There has been no official traffic survey of the sort we would have liked to have made. We have asked for a joint origin-destination study, but we have had no success."

How Many Cars? Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough Board of Education, suggested that a traffic study planned around an unbuilt school and non-existent streets would be "futile."

The question recurred throughout the hearing, and finally near its close, Planning Board member John Wallace asked the Borough school board, "Do you have any intention of making a traffic survey? Can't you just give us some idea of the traffic we might expect? Will it be 1,000 cars a day? 5,000?"

Chester Stroup, Borough superintendent, said that about 15 cars in each of two kindergarten sessions at Nassau Street School account for most of the transportation of Borough children at present. After kindergarten, transportation falls off until by third or fourth grade, most children are walkin or biking, and at Witherspoon school, most children are bike-riders, Dr. Stroup said.

Dr. Stroup also told the audience and the board that there would be a 25-minute morning "lag" between the opening of the elementary school and the opening of the high school across the street, and a 30-minute difference in the afternoon between closing times, so that traffic would be staggered.

Challenged to defend the new Borough school site as "centrally located," Dr. Stroup said he had made a survey which showed that 85.74 percent of the Borough's elementary population lives within three-quarters of a mile of the new school, and 72.32 percent within six blocks.

A GREAT BIG TWO-YEAR OLD: Ricky Van Deventer will celebrate his second birthday this Saturday although, as any of his classmates in the second grade at Penns Neck School can tell you, he is really eight years old. Ricky, one of those February 29, Leap-Year celebrants, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Deventer, and two younger brothers at 12 Ziff Lane, Princeton Junction. (Staff Photo)

A CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

New Service to Start. Men and women who want to serve in a useful volunteer capacity, and agencies in desperate need of volunteer help will be brought together in a new "Volunteer Center" to open March 30.

The idea comes from Mrs. Edgar Gemmell and the sponsor will be the Council of Community Services. Because the Center will be so valuable to the Princeton United Fund, the Fund will donate desk space, telephone, some secretarial service and a small amount of money for operating expense.

However, it is not only Fund agencies that will benefit from the new Center. Mrs. Gemmell and her committee have canvassed all agencies, and have found need for people to work with handicapped children, people to serve as treasurer, people who can supervise playgrounds and people with the time to stuff envelopes and collate brochures.

"It is not only women who are needed as volunteers," said Mrs. Gemmell. "We've found interesting work for retired men, for teen-agers and even for people confined to their homes. Anyone with as little as an hour a week to spare can find a useful way to serve the community. The job of the Volunteer Center will be to help find it."

The Center will have files containing information about the work of various service organizations in the area, with lists and descriptions of volunteer jobs (including the time required and the qualifications necessary).

Details concerning telephone and locations will be announced shortly. Information may be obtained, until then, from Mrs. Gemmell at 924-3705 or Mrs. Howard Fox, 921-6387.

Working with Mrs. Gemmell in organizing the new Center are Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Arno J. Mayer, Mrs. Sidney Braxill, Mrs. John Hite, Mrs. Eric Goldman, Mrs. Marvin R. Blumenthal, Mrs. William H. Walker II, Mrs. Robert H. Bierman, Mrs. Herbert S. Ruben and Mrs. Lucius Wilderding III.

HOSPITAL "IN BLACK"

Annual Report Issued. Princeton Hospital closed its books on 1963 with a net gain of $18,000, in contrast to a loss of more than $83,000 in 1962.

Treasurer John C. Whitwell announced the $18,000 surplus in the hospital's annual report presented Monday night at the annual meeting of the corporation.

The improved financial position is traceable to two major factors, according to Mr. Whitwell. One is the re-evaluation of the hospital's Blue Cross cost ceiling, which helped to close the gap between what Blue Cross pays and what patient care actually costs. The other is the fact that the hospital was used more during 1963, with a higher "percentage of occupancy" than before.

At Monday night's meeting, five trustees were elected to the hospital's board. Three of them—James Carey, Samuel Frothingham and Frank E. Taplin—are newcomers to the board. The other two — Dr. Robert S. Garber and Leslie L. Vivian Jr. — were re-elected.

Highlights of the annual report

- The Hospital has reached the $1 million mark in its drive toward $3.5 million for expansion of existing buildings and facilities. The $1 million includes three gifts of $100,000 each, from RCA, the Dow Jones Foundation and an anonymous contributor.
- The growth of the X-Ray department has been "fantastic," in the words of George W. Conover, president of the Board of Trustees. An additional Radiographic Room was opened in 1963, bringing the total to four.
- Mr. Conover regards the new Intensive Care Unit as one of the "most noteworthy" improvements made in the hospital in 1963. This department provides special care for patients who have undergone major surgery, and those who are ill enough to require maximum nursing attention.
- A new 24-bed pedialric department was established, with a separate unit for children who have had surgery.
- The maternity department, including the nurseries, was completely renovated.
- $20,000 worth of laboratory equipment was purchased in 1963, and the physical layout of the laboratory was changed. According to a five-year chart in the annual report, half again as many general laboratory tests were made in 1963 as in 1958 — 146,232 as opposed to 98,856.
- In 1963, 7800 patients were admitted to the hospital, including 1,080 newborn.

CAR SET ON FIRE

No Clue to Owner. A mysterious car fire highlighted the reports this week on Princeton Police dockets.

Answering a call about a car on fire on the Princeton-Kingston Road, Sergeant Anthony Nini and Patrolman Robert Heacock of the Township police reported on arrival that they found a 1949 sedan "completely enveloped in flames". It was 1 a.m. Tuesday.

After the fire had been extinguished by a piece of apparatus from the Hook & Ladder Co., the charred, gutted shell was towed away. The car had been left on the right shoulder of the Kingston Road, just below Poe Road. Police said it had not been there the day before.

No plates were on the car, complicating the efforts of police who are conducting an investigation. Barely visible on one of the rear windows is a sticker of the Rutgers College of Agriculture.

A Princeton woman was hospitalized following a two-car collision Tuesday morning at 10:30 at the intersection of Quaker and Mercer Roads.

Mrs. Shirley Knowles, 37, 149 Randall Road was admitted to Princeton Hospital for treatment of a possible concussion and lacerations of the face. Her condition was reported satisfactory. Her husband, David, 37, was treated for contusions and released.

The Knowles' car, heading toward Princeton on Mercer Road, was hit head-on by Daniel Nawrocki, 22, of Levittown, Pa, who had just turned onto Mercer from Quaker Road. Mr. Nawrocki, who was treated for lacerations, was issued a summons for a "stop sign" violation. Both cars were extensively damaged and towed away.

Bicyclist Hits Car. Kelly Valdes, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Valdes, 566 Princeton-Kingston Road, was treated for a cut lip and abrasions to her knee Monday afternoon, after her bicycle collided with a car.

According to Borough Police, Kelly was riding on the sidewalk when she ran into a car, driven by Mrs. Joan Luecke, 33, 46 Fisher Avenue, which was turning into Tulane from Nassau Street.

Police made no charges. The sidewalk in that area is prohibited to bicycles.

In the Township, Douglas Watson, 41, 37 Fisher Avenue, a member of the Borough police force, ran into difficulty Friday afternoon on Harrison Street.

As he was driving, Mr. Watson reported that his car pulled to the right into a snowbank. He hit a Public Service pole at the intersection of Sycamore Road. Mr. Watson received abrasions and lacerations of both knees and possible fracture to two ribs. His car was towed away.

Hits Two Poles. On Sunday, two residents of Florence were hospitalized when their car went out of control on Harrison Street and struck two poles.

Admitted to Princeton Hospital in serious condition was James A. Colton, 45, who sustained a possible skull fracture and severe lacerations of his face. He was thrown through the windshield.

The driver, Ann Muscianese, 45, broke her right forearm and received chest contusions. Her condition is fair.

As reconstructed by the Township police, the driver swerved to avoid an oncoming car, and, in so doing, sideswiped one pole, continued on 158 feet and hit a second pole head-on. The mishap occurred near the intersection of Hartley Avenue. There were no charges.

A charge of drunken driving was lodged against George F. Preston, 43, Route 27, by Borough Police, following an accident Saturday evening on Hamilton Avenue.

Preston was charged with hitting a parked car owned by Gary Klock of Dolgeville, N.Y., and damaging it extensively. Police quoted him as saying he did not know what happened. The entire front end of Preston's car was damaged and it was towed away.

March comes marching
Down the street,
A stiff breeze
Nipping at her feet.

The arrival of March will be delayed 24 hours by that extra day February claims once every four years as a means of keeping the calendar honest.

Leap Year's end at midnight Saturday will be followed, as forecast, by March, with its combination of late-winter bluster and teasing fore-warnings of spring. There won't be much of the latter for the next few days, temperatures averaging just a couple of degrees above freezing, with rain a part of the weekend.

News Of The THEATRES

"OTHELLO" OPENS

First in McCarter Series, The production of Shakespeare's tragedy "Othello" that opened the spring drama series for McCarter Theatre Saturday night, is rewarding—and disturbing.

Visually, it is splendid. The overall production shows the unmistakable touch of experts who love the theatre and Shakespeare and are dedicated to serving them both. It has, however, one great crack which very nearly causes the whole structure to collapse.

William Francisco has directed an "Othello" (cut briefly and adroitly) which opens promisingly with a pantomime of Othello's and Desdemona's elopement, set to the recorded words of a Shakespeare sonnet.

From there, we move to a succession of memorable tableaux: Venetian senators, dressed with flowing dignity in robes of muted velvet, sitting in solemn judgment on Othello while he tells how he wooed Desdemona; sailors ranged like a pyramid in the "rigging" of the many-leveled stage, peering with their lanterns into the darkness of the theatre as they scan the stormy sea; a lusty peasant dance in celebration of Othello's nuptials, done by candle and lorchlight around a village well in Cyprus, with the bangle of a tambourine to catch the beat of bare feet as they grind out a kind of Cypriot "twist;" Othello and Desdemona, one on either side of the stage, slowly descending the stairs toward each other, one so menacing, the other so troubled, the final "curtain," with Iago above and alone, back to the audience, lit by a faint light, while the bed with its tragic burden is below him in silent darkness.

"Always In Command." Robert Blackburn is a competent and sure-footed Othello, an actor who knows his way around in the role. He is always in command, whether he is the assured general or the half-barbarian insane with sexual jealously.

Those who recall the portly Moor of Paul Robeson may be startled by Mr. Blackburn, a tall, lithe and handsome general whose only condescension to age is a bit of white at the temple. When he says of Desdemona, "She had eyes to see and chose me," one can only add, "And why not?"

Desdemona herself is Angela D'Ambrosia, an exquisitely fragile young actress who gives, perhaps, the outstanding performance in this production. One sees her change, visibly yet subtly, from the hesitant bride with childish finger at the lip, to the despairing young woman fierce in her own defense, yet so firmly in control that she will not name her murderer.

Miss D'Ambrosia has large, eloquent eyes which she uses with great effectiveness to convey adoration, baffement or fear. She is a fine actress, skillful in the portrayal of youth and innocence. She should be a memorable "Juliet."

The Flaw. The great and tragic flaw in this McCarter production is Iago. To begin with, the role has been given to an actor (Stratton Walling) who does not even look the part, with soft, light-brown hair and almost invisible beard. (He should at least have been given a black wig.)

His appearance would not be important if he could be Iago, but he cannot. What we have here is a sandy-haired clerk who is disgruntled because he got passed over when the boss needed a new office manager.

Not once, in any scene, do we see the slightest hint of steel or strength. In no instance do we see the muscular cynic of the barracks, the soldier out for revenge.

Iago cannot, of course, be an obvious villain because the whole play hangs on his acceptance by everyone as an honest man. What he can be, is a straightforward, hard-talking tough guy. There is a kind of voice inflection common to both the honest truck-driver and the cynical crook, and this is the kind of rough-tough swagger we look for in Iago.

Mr. Walling had the additional misfortune of muffing his lines on opening night; in fact, his delivery was so halting and so hesitant that he gave the impression of not being sure just where the next word was coming from. It can happen, of course, to any actor. (Mr. Walling drew a sympathetic murmur from Saturday's audience) but it is a particular misfortune in this production.

Without a strong Iago, "Othello" is in deep trouble indeed. It is almost impossible to believe that a man like Othello, "great of heart," intelligent and worldly enough to lead the army of the Venetian Republic, would ever tumble to the kind of Iago he encounters on the McCarter stage. In fact, one is left with the thought that the smartest thing Othello ever did was to by-pass Iago in favor of a better man.

It is, then, a mixed beginning for McCarter's great Shakespear Festival.

Physically, the start is a fine one. Hugh Hardy's Festival Stage, explored by curious subscribers during the on-stage reception, is a masterpiece of theatrical ingenuity. William D. Roberts' costumes are superb in color, texture and design. Gilbert V. Hemsley Jr. maneuvers the new lighting board as though he had played with it from childhood.

We look forward to seeing the new repertory company in its subsequent productions, and we wish to Mr. Walling, "better luck next time."

MIXED RECEPTION

For San Francisco Ballet. It was a curious afternoon — a matinee at the McCarter Theater performed on Monday by the San Francisco Ballet. The audience consisted largely of youngsters and their escorts, but the program was a long way from "The Nutcracker" or "Swan Lake."

Lew Christensen's group presented three works of varying degrees of modernity and sophistication. The performance opened with "Variations de Ballet," choreographed by George Balanchine and Lew Christensen to music from the third act of Glazunov's "Raymonda." The costumes, designed by Reuben Ter-Arutunian, were vaguely unpleasant.

The dancing, with a few exceptions, was uninspired. Jocelyn Vollmar, leading ballerina, happily managed to put sparkle, fine technique and style into her performance, particularly in her pas de deux partnered by Thatcher Clark. The members of the corps de ballet danced well in a waltz sequence, which was lively and pleasant.

"Jest of Cards," choreographed by Lew Christensen and danced to music by Ernst Krenek, "recorded to produce a mechanical, electronic sound" (according to the program) was the novelty of the afternoon. The recording is satisfactorily mechanical, whining, bonging, squeaking, jangling.

The dancers, representing "cards" of a lowly order or "kings and queens" perform in costumes ranging from the abstract to the oriental. Terry Orr, a talented young man, dances the role of the "joker" aggressively and interestingly.

He taunts the "cards", who are shuffled without logic or meaning. They are anonymous in leotards and masks, varying in color for diamonds, clubs, hearts and spades. Tony Duquette, who designed both costumes and decor, has garbed the "kings and queens" in fantastic, towering, Kabuki-like costumes. These huge figures hardly move, but loom menacingly behind the "cards," who do combat with the "joker."

The choreography included some modern dance, some classical ballet, some eroticism and some confusion. The "joker" prevails in the end, swinging spectacularly on a rope high above the "cards", who are plunged into darkness and defeat.

It's always a good idea to end a ballet program with a romp, and so the Sao Francisco Ballet closed with "Caprice," a bit of fun Lew Christensen has done to Von Suppe's music. In this little story of nurse-maids flirting in the park with the military, Terry Orr, as the private who is displaced in a coquette's affections by a series of his superiors, again dances handsomely. His technique is sure and his performance animated, even if the general gets the girl.

The audience warmly applauded the company, the orchestra and its conductor, Gerhard Samuel, at the conclusion.

"ROMEO" NEXT

In McCarter Repertory. Shakespeare's star-crossed lovers will exchange their eternal vows when "Romeo and Juliet" opens this Friday as the second play in McCarter's spring repertory of five Shakespeare dramas.

Gerald Peters and Angela D'Ambrosia will play the leading roles, directed by Arthur Lithgow. Mr. Peters will be making his official McCarter debut, although he appeared briefly in the staff production of "Alice in Wonderland" last fall. Miss D'Ambrosia opened last week-end as Desdemona in "Othello."

Ruby Holbrook will play the Nurse in this "Romeo and Juliet" production; Stratton Walling will be Mercutio; Mario Siletti will be the Tybalt; Michael Miller, Friar Laurence and David Tress and Thomas Barbour, Montague and Capulet.

Next Friday, March 6, "The Taming of the Shrew" will join the repertory, will Robert Blackburn moving from the title role in "Othello" to

CREWEL AND KNIT

In Spring Pattern. The pleasant idea of combining crewel embroidery and knitting has occurred to the Vogue Pattern Book people and the result of their cogitation appears this spring at The Knitting Shop, Tulane Street.

It is, to start, a linen-cotton thread which you knit into a sleeveless shell. White, rose, yellow, blue, red. After you have knit your shell, you take out the stamped pattern from the crewel knit, and you begin to embroider. The pattern, a free and open one with traditional leaf-stem-flower design, has been stamped on white organdy.

With the kit, you have crewel yarn in gold-yellow, rose-pink, olive-avocado, turquoise-powder and an embroidery hoop. Stitch away, then applique your flowered white organdy panel to the front and back of your linen knit shell. Devastating.

Of course, you can forget the knitting and attach the embroidered panel to any shell you wish, even a sewn one made of cotton, if you like.

Another kind of linen yarn has been combined 50-50 with orlon, right there in England, to produce a thickly nubbed strand in oatmeal, bitter lemon, cornsilk, blue-grey. The Knitting Shop has it worked up in a short-sleeved pullover that is terribly attractive.

The English are also responsible for a thick, tweedy yarn to use for dresses or suits. Colors are called "Pigeon", "Mallard," "Kestral" and feathery things like that which really mean a tweedy blending, but you've got to liven things up a bit, you know.

Afghan patterns in "Woman's Day" have sent knitters to The Knitting Shop in droves, and we don't wonder. Look at these opulent Scotch mohairs, variegated in such a manner that they work into abstract blurs, quite different from the usual ombre. Greens, hennas, purple-pink combinations — all rich enough to make you reach for the size 15 needle (yes, some of them go that fast).

If you're sticking with crewel this spring, The Knitting Shop has that crewel clock, the one whose face you embroider while your husband gets the works. Yes, the works are with the embroidery kit, all ready to assemble. Sounds like the zero hour to us.

There is also a group of new Erica Wilson designs, including two piano-bench patterns with different groupings of musical instruments and a black or white handbag with chain handle (6½ by 9 inches).

For the petit-pointers, The Knitting Shop has a collection of provincial pillows, some reminiscent of Pennsylvania Dutch designs, others deriving from traditional Scandinavian patterns. Colors are strong, designs are forthright and geometric.

Remember those delightful mother - of - pearl buttons? The shop has flowers, golf flags (first to 19th holes) and trees already in stock and will order for you any breed of dog, the insigne of your boat, or a monogram.

WE'RE MOVING?

United Will Help. Two agencies of United Van Lines (Bohren's Moving and Storage, Princeton Junction; and Garden State Storage, Box 631, Freehold - Hightstown Road, Freehold) are equipped to discuss with you United "Pre-Planned Moving," which saves you itme, grey hairs, and anguish on that grisly day, known as "Moving Day."

United's "Bette Malone" has prepared a wonderful booklet to help you through those tough days when you are planning to gather a whole household and transport it 850 miles cross-country.

In this book, you'll find a time-table, telling you what to do as long as four to six weeks before moving day (keep a notebook for jotting down things to do; begin to use up your frozen foods; collect school records; write "Bette Malone" for information about your new city, using postcard at front of booklet).

Then, the booklet moves in closer, and advises two or three weeks before moving day (have your funds transferred from your local bank to a bank in the new city; start packing into cartons, identifying by sticker where each should go in the new house).

One week before moving day, you hold an "open house," return library books (how many of us forget that!) make arrangements to prepare your heavy appliances for shipment. Two days before moving day, you put aside the telephone book so you'll remember to take it with you for reference; and the day before, you'll think up reasons why friends shouldn't "help" because United has found that they only get in the way, and the first thing you do on moving day itself is to make sure the family has a good breakfast.

In the back of the booklet are charts to use for inventories of household equipment, printed change - of - address cards and stickers marked "linen," "bedding," "glassware," and so on, to put on cartons.

For information about the booklet, call either of the two agencies above: Garden State: 462-4000 and Borhen's, 921-8811.

Marcelle, Chez Elle

When you go into The French Shop, in the far corner of 20 Nassau Street, to buy your little spring suit of navy crepe, you will notice that the shop has a new air.

It has, as a matter of fact, been redecorated and repainted, until it is as fresh as Paris in the spring. The new rug is a light green and beige texture; the new walls are paint enhanced with panels of scenic wallpaper in the same green and beige. (You'll like the one that curves around that window partition near the front door.)

The new effect is spacious, gracious and charming. Marcelle, who presides over The French Shop, hopes you will pay her a call.

ALBERGO BERCHIELLI
FIRENZE

Florence, February 13, 1964

Dear Friends of Bellows,

I can't begin to tell you of the fashion excitement that lies ahead in the extensive collections I am now assembling for fall 1964 at BELLOWS. In the last week I have worked with about 25 Italian fashion houses to be able to bring you clothes that are more feminine and elegant than ever. The knitwear collections are the last word! A completely fresh approach to color and fabric texture has made me very enthusiastic for the clothes that will begin to arrive at BELLOWS in early July.

Of course it sounds amusing to talk of next fall already, but the amount of handwork that goes into these clothes demands that I work this far ahead. This afternoon, for example, I bought a group of long evening skirts, for which the fabric has yet to be handwoven.

It's hard to imagine that the Swiss and French markets can offer more excitement than I've seen in the various Italian fashion houses, but I shall soon see as I leave for Zurich tomorrow evening. Paris will follow. Then it will be good to come home.

See you all soon,

Cordially,

Stuart Bellows

the role of Petruchio. Brita Brown will be Kate.

"HARP" IS CAST

Due in March. Truman Capote's comedy, "The Grass Harp," is now in rehearsal and will be presented by Community Players on three consecutive weekends: March 20, 21; 27, 28 and April 3, 4.

The play will be given in Murray Theatre on campus with an 8:30 curtain. Garrison Ellis, who has directed for, acted in productions of, and served as president of Community Players, will direct this spring offering.

The cast includes Geraldine Brian, Jolyon Sprowles, Shirley Kauffman, Sylvia Fontijn, Ralph Denton, Mary Hayden, Tom Schmitz and Thomas Queenan.

Also June Cawley, Judy Neese, Steve Heiman, Edward Yanowitz, Cornelia Rosmini, Jane Guldenzopf, Lois Cohen, Isobel Abelson, Wanda Fontann, Wendy Shaull, Kristine Stuart, David Skibbins, Grattan Smith and William White.

PRINCE AND PLAYHOUSE

The Victors (through Tuesday) is dedicated to the propositions that in war nobody wins and that evil behavior inevitably corrupts its practitioners. Obvious and frequently stated truisms they are, of course, but ones which never should grow old or tiresome.

In "The Victors," a three-hour essay on the pointless brutalities and amoral juvenalities of World War II, producer and director Carl Foreman has supplied a lot of show. It's a crowded picture—crowded with events, characters, action, change of pace and locale.

The utter futility of war and the utter degredation of men at war are examined thoughtfully and thoroughly, with skepticism but not cynicism, clinically yet compassionately. An expert analysis of a familiar but important theme.

GARDEN

Dead Ringer (through Tuesday) gets off to a racing start as a nerve-twitcher but slows down from nervous exhaustion about halfway around the track. Still, it's a must for Bette Davis devotees, and at worst it comes off as workmanlike melodrama.

It's a kind of "Dark Mirror" in which Miss Davis plays two roles: identical twins. Identical, that is, except that as the twin Edith, badly in need of a Playtex living girdle and intensive psychotherapy, she outlives twin Margaret, her high-fashion and high-handed lookalike.

This she accomplishes by the simple, direct method of, as Edith, murdering her alter ego, Margaret, the rich kid with the altered id. The rest is histrionics.

INTIME SCORES

With Albee Pair. "The Zoo Story" and "The American Dream," current offerings by the Theatre Intime, will be well received by all Edward Albee admirers.

Much of the credit goes to George Blanchard, Intime president, who has directed the one-acters with an exeellent sense of pace. The stylized delivery of the lines in "Dream" is particularly effective.

Both plays are early Albee—his dual springboard to fame, in fact. They are filled with bitter, yonng wit, largely drawn from the back stairs. The plays reflect life with the distortion of the crazy mirrors in an amusement park.

"The American Dream" satirizes crudely, eruelly, the playwright's life as the adopted child of fairly well-to-do parents. The acting is exeellent. It is hard to fault Carol Schwartz as Mommy, Ed Townley as Daddy or Shirley Kauffman as Grandma.

The wildest flight of mind comes in the part of Mrs. Barker, director of the adoption agency. Sally Lewis plays the part with addle-pated gaiety, clad in a black slip and big hat. Steve Wilson portrays the vacant young man.

In "The Zoo Story," Albee goes to work on the problem of "are people animals?" Daniel Deitch is excellent as West Sider Jerry, the loner who can't even make friends with a dog. Steve Kaplan gives strong contrast as Peter, a prim man from the publishing world, who is shocked out of complacency by the crudeness of Jerry.

The play is very nearly a monologue by Jerry. Deitch handles it very well. He prowls the stage with an admirable sense of timing, getting the most out of the savage witticisms.

The plays will be repeated this Friday and Saturday at Murray Theatre, and again on March 6 and 7. Curtain time is 8:30.

Auditions!

"Showboat," the Jerome Kern immortal, will be the spring production for P. J. & B. It's due on April 30, May 1 and 2 in McCarter, with Milton Lyon directing (as before, for P. J. & B.'s "Guys and Dolls," "Anything Goes" and "Gypsy!")

Tryouts will be held next Saturday, March 7, from 10 to noon and 4 to 6 p.m. and Sunday, March 8, from 1 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. in McCarter.

Singers, actors, dancers and technicians should eall McCarter (92t-8700) and make an appointment. Because of the nature of the Kern score, singers will be in particular demand. Mr. Lyon and "Showboat" 's two producers, Gilbert Hemsley Jr. and William Lockwood Jr., hope, in the absence of a Savoyard production this spring, to gather in some Gilbert and Sullivan specialists.

YOU MEAN MORE SCHOOL? Yes, If It Snows. Ignoring completely the desires of its small constituents, Township School Board voted Thursday night to extend school beyond June 18—the scheduled closing day—if classes have to be suspended again because of snow.

The three "snow days" alloted by the board for the current year have all been used up: two during the blizzard of last month, and one for the Kennedy memorial day last November 25. State regulations call for a minimum of 180 school days a year.

Richard Pearson was re-elected president of the board and A. Robert Trudel was re-elected vice-president at Thursday's meeting. Both men are serving their third terms on the board, and their second terms as officers.

Louis Cicchini, art teacher at Riverside, has been chosen to represent Princeton Township on the New York University-State Department seminar series to be held in India. David Ilogenauer was the representative two years ago.

Montgomery Township will be allowed to rent a maximum of five classrooms in Riverside School during 1964-65 at a rental of $1,500 per classroom, the board decided Thursday night. The agreement is for one academic year only. After that, the Township itself will need the space.

TO MOVE PUPILS?
West Windsor Will Decide. At a special meeting Monday, the West Windsor School Board will decide whether to transfer 80 pupils, kindergarten through second grade, from the Penns Neck School to the new Maurice Hawk School.

If approved, the transfer would be made by Easter, according to Frank Walton, West Windsor superintendent. The new Maurice Hawk School was scheduled to open in September, but there have been several delays.

At the Board's meeting last week, W. Bradford Craig was elected president, succeeding Bernard Mount, who was elected vice-president. Mr. Craig had served as vice-president last year, and has been a member of the board for six years.

Mrs. Nancy Deitz and Mrs. Mary Burke were appointed as elementary teachers, and Mrs. Darlene King, Mrs. Barbara Braun and Miss Melinda Newton were named to the list of substitute teachers.

BIRTHS

Nineteen Born. Ten boys and nine girls were born last week at Princeton Hospital.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Feldman, 180 Franklin Corner Road, Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Peters Sr., New Road, Monmouth Junction, both on February 17; Mr. and Mrs. Fields Bowser, Old York Road, Allentown, February 18; Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall, 227½ John Street, February 19; Mr. and Mrs. Brian Stewart, 106 Nassau Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wombough, Brunswick Pike, both on February 20; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Reuter, 14 Park Avenue, Pennington, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Evans, 34 Savage Road, Franklin Park, both on February 21, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McKee, 168 N. Harrison Street, February 22.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kislan, Federal Road, Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. Carlos A. Benito, 92 Stockton Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Maglivi, Mill Road, Princeton Junction, all on February 17; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Barnett, 74 Robert Road, and Mr. and Mrs. James Snyder, Rocky Hill, both on February 19; Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Mighell, Crescent Street, Rocky Hill; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Leighton, 31 Moran Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dousmanis, 28 Forester Drive, all on February 20; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Artin, 23 Pine Drive, Roosevelt, and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Baionno, 24 Cambridge Road, Kendall Park, both on February 21.

A daughter, Patricia Lynn, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cheney II of Cranbury on February 14 at Community Memorial Hospital, Toms River.

PARKING LOT FIGHT SET
For Zoning Board Hearing. A new chapter will be added to the history of Sheldon House, handsome Greek Revival residence at 10 Mercer Street, when the University presents its plans to the Zoning Board on Thursday for a 45-car parking lot for the backyard. The meeting, which is set for 8:15 p.m., promises to be action-packed and people-full because the University's proposal is scheduled for strong opposition by Sheldon House neighbors, according to a Mercer Street resident (see Mailbox, page 12).

For the University, John P. Moran, director of physical planning, says that the lot would be "judiciously planned to protect the neighbors." He adds that the lot would keep the natural grade and almost all the trees.

Mr. Moran attributes neighbors' opposition to fear of decreased property values and to suspicion of University plans to expand its building program into the area. "This is simply not the case," he says. "The University is going in the other direction, towards the southeast."

The proposed lot, according to Mr Moran, is planned to establish a "fairly stable" parking arrangement for those who work in Stanhope, Rennion and Nassau Halls. He adds: "This need isn't going to increase, and additional parking space after this will probably not be required."

On the Other Hand . . . Sheldon House neighbors, however, view the situation askance. One calls the proposed lot "just one step further into the oldest residential part of Princeton."

Another says: "The parking lot would not only lessen properly values, it would increase traffic congestion and make the area just that much more dangerous for our children." A third opposes it as unnecessary and unesthetic.

"Sheldon House is a fine example of Greek Revival architecture in America. But who ever heard of a Greek Revival parking lot?" he asks.

Sheldon House itself, meanwhile, is maintaining a Doric stoicism behind its four white columns. It's used to having a fuss made over it.

Now used as a BOQ for unwed faculty members, it was built in Northampton, Massachusetts, early in the 19th century and moved by barge to Princeton in 1868 by the Rev George Sheldon.

According to legend, Dr Sheldon inherited the house as part of a relative's estate with the proviso that he live in it. But, the story goes, the will did not stipulate that he live in Northampton. So Sheldon House came to Princeton.

And Still More Parking. At Thursday's meeting of the Zoning Board, the University will also request permission to install a 190-car parking area on the old football practice field next to the Engineering Quadrangle. Entrance to the lot would be by the lower gateway on Prospect Street.

A third parking lot proposal will come before the board the same night, this one from the Nassau Street Corp. for the new two-story building at 145 Witherspoon Street. A variance will be sought to allow parking in the rear of the structure.

Town House Apartments. The zoning board will also be asked to rule on a variance which would permit the construction of a 252-unit "town house" apartment complex on Harrison Street North, just to the north of the fire house, on land owned by Anthony LaPlaca.

The variance is required because the land is at present zoned for two-family dwelling units. Appellants before the board will be Delwin Gregory and Edward Faroe, representing a corporation which has planned the project.

Going: 31 Parking Meters

As of September 1, the Borough will have 31 less off-street parking places when the lot at the corner of Mercer Street and University Place reverts to University use.

Since April 1, 1952, there have been 31 meters in operation there, with the land on loan from the University in return for remission of taxes. The agreement called for use of the lot to revert to the University when it found such a request necessary, and it will augment its own off-campus parking program with the land.

PLAN PANEL SESSION

On Disarmament. Economist Klaus Knorr will lead the "Great Decisions" discussion of disarmament Monday at 8 p.m. in the YMCA.

Other panelists are Dr. Richard A. Falk, international law; Dr. Paul Ramsey, religion, and Dr. Robert C. Tucker, Russian studies.

Informal discussion will follow the program. All those concerned about arms control and disarmament are invited to attend. Fact sheets giving background material on the current series, sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association, are available at Male's Book Shop, Public Library, YMCA and University Store.

A re-broadcast of last Monday's panel on "Egypt and the Middle East" is scheduled for 11 p.m. this Saturday over WRFM, New York.

navy embroidery has a series of small open "v"s at the neckline, a jacket with elbow sleeves and a casual unbuttoned air that belies the conservatism of the navy. Another navy combines with white to make a silk print with wide, flat collar and straight skirt.

Moving away from navy, there's a turquoise silk with printed yoke, and a jacket with tailored lapels. Turquoise and royal together make a brilliant stained-glass silk print with chiffon sleeves in exactly the same print, and a chiffon overblouse under the jacket.

For sport, there is the Serbin mesh shirtwaist, or the windowpane check in red - white - blue with its navy orlon cardigan.

Juniors are served at The French Shop by a collection of suits, demure and pert as a size seven in a sailor hat. Here's a maize with notched jacket and flat, two-inch collar, rather like a flattened mandarin.

Another maize has lapels faced with linen and a maize linen blouse with flat neckline bow. Juniors will adore the navy crepe with white organdy ruffles around the cuffs.

Regular sizes will have to choose among the rose for yellow check suit with Chanel jacket, the turquoise wool knit shift (belt optional) with silk shirt whose collar fits down into the V neckline of the shift and the three-piece rayon in navy powder, citified and yet sheer enough for hot weather, with bands of powder against the navy of jacket and of navy against the powder of the blouse.

Keeping Time?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have been wondering whether your music reviewer fancies himself an Ernest Newman or an Audax Minor? The fact is that he seems to sit through concerts primed with a stop-watch 23 minutes for Spohr, 15 minutes for Sessions and 44 minutes for Brahms.

On this basis, Brahms clearly emerges the loser at the finish line. Is this supposed to represent a canon of taste, or does your reviewer have to catch a train?

ROBERT E. LERNER
135 Bayard Lane

Spot-Zoning Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following letter, which has been sent to the Borough Zoning Board, concerns a request by Princeton University for a variance of zoning regulations in the Borough. This request is to be presented to the Zoning Board February 27. The proposed variance would permit establishment of a parking yard to accommodate 40 cars of University staff members employed in or near Nassau Hall. The area would be adjacent to the present University Store parking lot, and would also be bounded by the backyards of homes on Mercer Street and Edwards Place and by the historic house on Mercer known as the Sheldon house.

This matter should be given full attention by the Princeton residents, with the realization that a variance of zoning should be granted only in exceptional cases where a total public gain is fully indicated and recognized.

VIRGINIA B. ERDMAN
President, Residents
of Princeton

To the Zoning Board,
Borough of Princeton

The request for a variance to permit establishment of a parking yard for University staff members in a crowded residential area bordering the campus is a matter of intense concern to the homeowners and inhabitants of the immediate neighborhood, to whom it means a devaluation of their property, elimination of green and open space, and increase of noise and hazards in a district already overtaxed by existing commercial and parking facilities. But it is of great concern also to residents of the wider community, in that its effect would be to further undermine the quiet residential character of the town and add another precedent of spot-zoning and unintegrated planning. The increase in traffic congestion resulting from this addition of parking space in the town's center would be felt by everyone who uses our streets in the busy hours of the day and week.

We sympathize with the University planners in their wish to clear the campus of traffic. We appreciate the need to accommodate the people employed in this section of the campus, and grant that for a certain few of these the distance from existing parking yards may necessitate an inconvenience or excessively long walks.

But it is hard to believe that the only solution of this problem is one so detrimental to so many other people. We trust the Zoning Board to consider this matter with full regard for the rights of the citizens affected, and we suggest that a more thorough exploration be made of the several possible alternatives.

VIRGINIA ERDMAN
President Residents
of Princeton

Lot Needs Further Study.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We strongly urge further study of the proposed parking lot behind Sheldon House. To introduce a blacktop scar in the midst of one of Princeton's most historic areas is a serious step and one which should not be taken hastily.

We would have to live with the resulting disfigurement for a long time. We hope that the Borough Zoning Board will defer decision on this matter until all possible alternatives have been carefully studied both by the University and the town.

TWO HOMES ENTERED

On Westcott Road. The homes of Charles Chandler and William Turnbull, 107 and 138 Westcott Road, were entered Sunday by thieves who then ransacked the upstairs in each case. The owners were away for the day in both instances, police said.

Nothing may have been taken from the Chandler home. Police reported that Mrs. Chandler was unable to determine what might be missing, pending a thorough examination. At the Turnbull home, jewels and other valuables were ignored, but the thieves did take several $5 Canadian bills and a small amount of silver from a child's bank.

Entry to both homes was gained by forcing a basement door, police said.

TWO ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Two Princeton area motorists were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. following charges made by Trooper Steven Jablanowski of the Princeton Barracks.

Gene Jackson, 23, Monmouth Junction, was fined $25 after Trooper Jablanowski testified Mr. Jackson had made an unsafe move in cutting in front of his car. Walter D Bannard, 29, Skillman was fined $20 on an unregistered vehicle violation.

THIEVES RETIRE

At Expense of VW Owners. Until the 1964 models were made, Volkswagen cars did not possess a trunk lock — and some one is taking advantage of it.

Last week, three owners reported to Borough Police the theft of a spare wheel and tire from their parked VW's. They are Frederick Bach, 361 Nassau Street; Charles Hower, 110 Prospect Avenue; and Sterling Boyd of the Graduate College. The latter placed his loss at $30; the others at $25.

In a similar incident, Mrs. John Venier, 16 Bank Street, reported the theft of a spare tire and the front grille from her 1961 Peugeot. She told police that the night the items were stolen she had parked in the Princeton High School yard and later in the Chambers Street Yard. Police said she was unable to determine where the theft took place.

Borough police also reported the theft of a woman's pocketbook containing $75.

Miss Joan Kirtland, 135 Spruce Street, told police that someone stole her pocketbook from the basement of the Messiah Lutheran Church, Nassau and Cedar Lane, where she had left it while attending a service. The loss occurred on Friday.

FUND CHAIRMAN

For Somerville Red Cross. William Doremus has been named chairman of the Montgomery Township drive for the Somerville area Red Cross. Montgomery's goal, to be sought in March, is $2500.

Mr. Doremus, who lives on Grandview Road, Skillman, is manager of J. P. Van Zandt Company in Blawenburg.

AWARDS DINNER HELD

By Postal Employees. A dinner was held last week at the Holiday Inn in honor of three former employees of the Princeton Post Office who retired at the end of 1963. Together, the three had served more than a century.

Presented with wallets and savings bonds were former Postmaster Charles F. Murray (42 years); Samuel E. Copner, assistant postmaster, (36 years);; and Arnickle Marcolline (27 years). John L. Dilworth, acting postmaster, made the presentations.

Two seven-year employees, Clifford Perrine and Charles Thompson, also received awards. Basil Ferrara, Superintendent of Mails, presided.

HEART DISEASE TOPIC

Of Thursday Radio Panel. Doctors John R. Burbridge, Louis Fishman and Archibald D Sheeran, physicians at Princeton Hospital will participate in a heart disease forum to be broadcast Thursday evening at 8:05 over station WHWH. During the hour-long program, the public is invited to telephone in questions.

For the Princeton area, the telephone numbers are 924-3600, 3601, or 3604. For listeners outside the Princeton area, the number to call is 986-1900. The panel is being held in conjunction with the American Heart Association sponsorship of February as Heart Month.

Harold Mantell will serve as moderator. Mr. Mantell is an information consultant to organizations interested in medicine, a science writer and a film producer. He heads Harold Mantell, Inc., a public relations firm with offices at 20 Nassau Street and New York City.

MATTRESS FIRE QUELLED

On Birch Avenue. A mattress and bed clothing were charred early Saturday morning in a bedroom fire in a rooming house at 210 Birch Avenue. No one was injured in the 4:30 a.m. blaze which is believed to have started from a cigarette.

According to Fire Chief Robert F. Mooney, the house was filled with smoke but the fire was contained to the mattress. The house is owned by Mrs. Julia Gaines and rented to Mrs. Margaret Tillman. Police said two boarders also live there.

FUND RAISERS TO MEET

For Hospital Drive. A kick-off meeting for workers in the general campaign to raise $3.5 million for Princeton Hospital will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium at Princeton High School.

Mrs. Marshal M. H. Dana and Mrs. Bernard Kilgore are co-chairmen of the General Gifts Committee which will handle the general campaign. At Monday's meeting, the Rev. Ernest Gordon, Dean of Princeton University Chapel, will speak, and the Princeton High School Band will play.

GUEST SPEAKER PLANNED

By Ladies Auxiliary. Members and guests of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Hook and Ladder Fire Company will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Harrison Street firehouse.

The featured speaker is Francis Kappas, who will discuss his work in Africa. Members may bring a guest.

MISS HAUCK TO RETIRE

As Penns Neck Principal, Miss Georgiana Hauck, for 43 years principal of the Penns Neck School, has tendered her resignation, effective this June. The West Windsor Board of Education has accepted her retirement with regret.

Superintendent of Schools Frank J. Walton noted that Miss Hauck's "devotion to children and education is unparalleled within the state, if not within the nation."

Miss Hauck wrote that she will "appreciate a bit more leisure and the opportunity to do some of the things I've had to neglect for lack of time."

FOUR LOSE LICENSES

Under State Motor Laws. Four Princeton area drivers have had their licenses suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Question of the Week

Question: Would you favor a referendum seeking legalized off-track betting in New Jersey, the money to be used for education, welfare and roads.

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. Ruth Gilwood, 33 Braeburn Drive, housewife: If it is going to be used on education, welfare and roads, why not. They bet anyway. They might as well make it legal.

Charles D. Harris, 43 Moran Avenue, Princeton Borough policeman: I think I'd be against that because if you make it convenient you will have people gambling who didn't gamble before and ones who can't afford to. The temtation will be there. I'd go for a broad-base tax before this. It has it's good points, though. It would help control crime in a way. A lot of money bet today, especially numbers, goes into organized crime. A 25-cent bet doesn't sound like a lot but when you multiply it by millions a lot of money ends up in narcotics and things like that.

Mrs. Elizabeth Parker, Hightstown, housewife: I don't see and reason why the people are going to be good, bad or indifferent about betting. You aren't going to change them by making a law out of it.

John Satch, Hopewell, employee for Castoro Construction: I think it would be better to legalize gambling because people are going to bet anyway. I imagine there would be a few more betting because half the people are afraid to bet with bookies. They don't pay the regular price they pay at the track; they just pay a certain percentage.

Mrs. D. R. Hamilton, Wyman House, Springdale Road, housewife: I don't think so. Somehow I don't associate the two ideas. I think it would be a temptation for people who had minimum incomes and allowances if we had legalized off-track betting. People who ordinarity bet at the race track might be tempted. There must be better ways.

Miss Linda Hanner, Belle Mead, typist-receptionist: Yes, because everybody is too cheap with money when it comes to education. I feel a lot of people like to bet and the state would benefit if they legalized it — if they use the money for education.

Frank Perna, 156 Jefferson Road, owner of South's garage: Yes. I think it would be a good idea. It would bring money for education and roads without having to go to the taxpayers. The property owners can't stand any more. Rents are so high, you hear complaints every day. Yet we have to have schools and roads. This is the best solution, in my opinion.

Mrs. Betty Iselin, 31 Humbert Street, secretary: But would it he used for these purposes? This is my concern. You hear a lot about these causes, about how money is being collected for them, but you never hear the results. I should love to hear someday, that "x" amount of money was collected for this cause, that "x" amount was spent and this is what was done. You always hear about the collection but never the results. Who would be in charge of it? Look at what can happen in Washington. If that can happen there, you can imagine what could happen on a state level. I would be in favor of it if I could be sure if these areas would benefit directly from off-track betting.

Hal Horton, 1939 Hall, University senior: No, I just don't believe in betting, period, whether it's off track betting or not. It's good that this money would be used for education but I would prefer to see a sales tax before this.

Mrs. Virginia Van Kirk, Princeton Junction, sales clerk: No, I think people who couldn't afford to would be more apt to take advantage of this off track betting. I don't favor gambling in any form, myself.

Vincent Oscar, Middlebush, porter for chemical firm: In a way it is okay because some people are gong to bet anyway. But I'm afraid they might overdo it. I could become so wide-spread that those who couldn't afford to gamble might be drawn into it. The whole thing would have to be tightly controlled.

David Roy, 29 Edward Place, assistant professor, Princeton University: Yes, because I believe a considerable percentage of people enjoy gambling and attempts to regulate this illegal gamhling are unenforceable and play into the hands of crime.

Mrs. Dean Seibel, Kendall Park, housewife: No, I just don't believe in betting for money: it's a form of gambling. If you bet for money I'm against it.

Alfred Barylsky, Newark, truck driver: No. Once they bring this in, I don't think it is a good environment for the children to be exposed to. It brings gambling too much out in the open.

Frank Doyle, Avalon, awning installer: I'm for it because a lot of people are going to bet anyway and it would help lower property taxes. The ones who don't bet aren't going to start betting.

John H. Ford, Little Rocky Hill, assistant pastor, also an employee of South's Garage: I kind of think gambling—and this is what it is—is a little against God's rules. I would say it would be wrong. I would rather see them use some other method.

to head a two-year junior committee by the Mercer County Board of Freeholders. The committee will study the needs and resources of the county appropo the establishment of a junior college here. Dr. Mareson, a member of the Rutgers faculty since 1955, is an alumnus of the University of Chicago where he also received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees.

Allon R. Hyatt, former assistant headmaster at Lawrenceville School, will serve as acting dean of admissions and student appointments at Yale University during the academic year 1964-65. Dean Arthur Howe Jr. has been granted a leave of absence.

Mr. Hyatt, a Lawrenceville trustee, has been living in Branford, Conn. since his 1960 retirement. A Yale graduate, he joined the Lawrenceville faculty in 1924, serving in various capacities, as housemaster, registrar, teacher, director of the lower school, until 1934 when he became assistant headmaster. He was acting headmaster in 1934 and again in 1959.

Since his retirement from Lawrenceville, Mr. Hyatt has been assisting Dean Howe at Yale in admissions work.

William R. Seyfarth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Seyfarth, Nelson Ridge, Hopewell, received his B.S. degree in January from Hope College, Holland, Mich. Mr. Seyfarth majored in music and plans to teach. While at Hope, he was a member of the Chapel Choir, band, orchestra and symphonette.

William B. Duryee of 521 State Road has been named head of the new international commerce section of the State Conservation Department. One of his first jobs will be the preparation of an international trade program geared to the needs of small and medium-size concerns desiring to enter or expand activities in the foreign market.

Mr. Duryee will also encourage foreign tourism and aid foreign manufacturers to set up plants in this state. At present the only employee in the international section, Mr. Duryee had a varied career in international trade and advertising before joining the Conservation Department in 1962 as a foreign trade specialist.

Michael D. Mareson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Mareson of 36 Marion Road, has joined the photography board of the Brown University "Daily Herald." A graduate of Princeton High School, he is on the dean's list at Brown and is a member of Alpha Pi Lambda fraternity.

Staff Sergeant John M. DeLang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike DeLang of Plainsboro, has completed a special maintenance training course on supersonic F-105 jet fighter-bombers at Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base, N.C., and has returned to his N.J. Air National Guard unit at McGuire Air Force Base. A graduate of Princeton High School, S/Sgt. DeLang is married and lives in Bordentown.

Douglas M. Cormack Jr., seaman apprentice, USN, is stationed at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas M. Cormack of Plainsboro.

Miss Cynthia Coe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Coe of 115 Shady Brook Lane, has been named to the dean's list of Centenary College for Women. She is in her senior year.

Bradley Is Basketball's "Player of the Year"

How good is Bill Bradley? The Sporting News thinks that by the time he graduates in 1965, he'll be on a par with Jerry Lucas and Oscar Robertson — the only two players ever to be named three times to its All-American team.

Bradley this week not only placed on the nationally-circulated weekly's top five for the second year in a row, but was named as its "Player of the Year." He was accorded the honor over the other four men on the All-American team—all of whom are seniors.

Rounding out the quintet are Gary Bradds, Ohio State; Lucious Jackson, Pan American; Walt Hazzard, UCLA; and Jeff Mullins, Duke. The selection is based on the opinion of National Basketball Association scouts, one of whom said, "If there ever was a Player of the Year, it would have to be Bill Bradley this season."

In announcing Bradley's selection as the best college player in the US, The Sporting News said:

"Bradley, who never stops trying to improve, was a standout as a sophomore, better this season as a junior and should be even more sensational as a senior. . . . The 6-foot, 6-inch star drew the unstinted praise of the NBA scouts. In crisp language that matched Bradley's work on the court, one of the appraisals said: 'He's a great all-around offensive player. Fine shooter, tremendous passer, excellent moves. Very smart. Great clutch player and team leader.'

". . . Scoring is just one facet of Bradley's brand of basketball. The big fellow is tough on defense, rugged as a rebounder and as dexterous as a guard in handling the ball, feeding off and setting up plays."

6-3 sophomore averaged 13.5 for the road trip, however, a major factor in the Tigers' unanticipated success.

Cornell a Possible Threat. High-scoring Cornell may give Princeton trouble Saturday night — at Ithaca. Bradley had to get 49 points to assure the Tigers of victory. The Red has five players who often score in double figures, and six players on its squad who are 6-5 or more — giving them the greatest height in the league.

Captain Ray Ratkowski (6-0) directs the attacks from his backcourt position. Others who will see steady action are sophomore Steven Cram (6-7), Marv Van Leeuwen (6-5), Jim Magliscean (6-6), Bob McCready (6-5) and Bob DeLuca (6-1). The Ithacans' weakness is defensive — in the same number of games, they have allowed 125 more points than Princeton. Expectations are that they will drop out of the race by losing both their games away from home this weekend.

Neil Farber, a sharpshooter who gave the Tigers fits at New York, spearheads the Columbia attack, which also features Ken McCulloch, Ken Benoit and Art Klink. The Lions are unlikely to stay close through the first half against a revenge-minded Princeton quintet.

If the Tigers win them both, and Penn and Yale follow suit this weekend, the outcome of the race will hinge on next Wednesday's game at the Palestra. In losing, 65-52, here on February 1, Penn hung two or more players on Bradley, paring the Tiger star's output to 18 points. Rodenbach saved the day with 22, almost all from the outside.

The Quakers, particulaly tough to beat on their own court, build their attaek around 6-8 John Heilings, and two good sophomores, Stan Pawlak and Jeff Neuman. The Palestra has been a tough place for Princeton teams for 30 years, but the Tigers now appear to have the balance and momentum that — with Bradley — will take them through to the 1964 Ivy League title.

DARTMOUTH SIX COMING

Indian Skaters Lead League. Princeton's opportunity to brighten a mediocre hockey season by defeating one of the East's top teams comes Saturday at 2 o'clock in Baker Rink when Ivy league-leading Dartmouth plays here. The Indians began the week with a string of seven straight victories and a 12-4 overall mark that was the third best in this section of the country.

Last in the Ivy standings a year ago, the Green can win the 1964 title if it takes two of its three remaining games against the Tigers, Brown and Cornell. Three good lines and a solid defensive unit have resurrected Dartmouth hockey fortunes to give the New Hampshire college its first winning season in four years.

Princeton assured itself of ability to finish out of the league cellar Saturday when it edged Yale, 4-3, in overtime. The two teams were scheduled to meet again this Wednesday in New Haven, but the Elis will have to defeat Harvard at least once — an unlikely development — in order to catch the Orange and Black in the standings.

A pair of goals by Captain Gerry Skoning and sophomore Mike Spence combined to beat the Bulldogs, but victory was not achieved until 8:47 of the ten-minute sudden-death overtime period. Sophomore Harry Mays was the Tigers' goalie, having replaced Dick Reece as the season draws to a close.

Skoning's first score came at 12:22 of the initial period, but Yale took a 2-1 advantage into the dressing room. The Tigers then regained the advantage when Spence scored at 1:26 and Skoning recorded his second at 16:15 while the Tigers were a man short. The deadlock that lasted for the next 24 minutes was achieved for the Elis when Dick Baker, a Princetonian whose home is at 1 Armour Road, beat Mays to climax a Yale pressure play.

A rebound which goalie Mike Hanson of the Blue could not control gave Spence the shot for his winning goal. He jammed it into the nets and the Tigers had their sixth straight victory in Baker Rink over Yale.

Following the Dartmouth game, Princeton travels to Cambridge Tuesday to play Harvard. The season will end Saturday, March 7, against Brown in Baker Rink.

PHS ENDS WITH A BANG

Defeats Hunterdon, 69-48. The Princeton High School basketball team played its final home game of the season Monday afternoon in style, defeating Hunterdon Central, 69 to 48. The 21-point margin of victory, — its seventh in 17 games — was its largest of the year.

A Friday evening contest with Pennington High School on the latter's home court will end the current season for the Little Tigers. If they win, they will achieve a modest goal that has escaped them all season — two in a row.

"It could have been so much better," said PHS coach Tony Borzok, discussing the season that is now almost history. "The individual potential was there, but . . ." Tony didn't finish talking about what might have been.

Against PHS, Hunterdon Central never had a chance. It was the victim of torrid first-half shooting by the home team, which carried a comfortable 40-26 margin into the locker room The Blue and White shot a phenomenal 71% in the first two periods, ending with a fine 51% effort.

Chief marksmao was 6-3 Jim Tucker. Playing his best game of the season, Tucker personally accounted for 10 of his team's 17 points in the first period. He added six more in the next as he hit on an amazing 71% of his shots in the half. His total of 23 points was his top for the year, his previous high being 19.

Like Stan Musial. Tucker is most deadly with a shot slightly to the left of the basket. In shooting with his right hand, Jim is forced to twist his body into an awkward position, somewhat like a twisted Stan Musial at the plate, but the results are just as devastating. "It may look awkward but who cares how it looks as long as they go in," said Borzok.

Most of the rest of the shooting was divided between co-captains Dave Hill and Tom Waters, who combined for 26 points, and Larry Madden with nine. Top-scoring Wilbur Hines dipped to his season's low with seven.

Perhaps one reason why the losers were unable to keep up with Princeton is that this game marked the third they had played in four days. In order to play all its scheduled games and still compete in the Group 3 post-season state tourney, Hunterdon was forced to play games on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

"This was a tired team we met today," said Borzok. Their record is 10-6 and they didn't get that just by playing anybody. Anytime you earn a record like that, you've got a good club."

...has more than 90 "industrial parks"!

Within the past ten years, there has been a spectaeular growth of well-planned privately-developed industrial parks. These industrial parks, defined as not less than 20 acres, are comprehensively planned to provide industry with a location suited to their specifieations and requirements. Properly restricted and zoned, these planned industrial areas provide all necessary utilities—adequate water, power, sewage disposal and transportation. Many park developers offer complete "packages", even financing.

This type of planning between industry, private developers and community leaders achieves maximum benefits for all eoncerned. Increasing the acreage available to industry with desirable features of design and planning, represents one more reason why industry likes New Jersey and why it sueceeds here.

Sports In Princeton

Little Tigers were defeated Friday by the rampaging Hornets of Hamilton High School who are in hot pursuit of bettering the best record ever posted in the sport at the school. The score was 62-56.

Taking away some of the sting of defeat, however, was the solid performance turned in by the losers. It was a vast improvement over the 81-60 romp registered earlier this winter by Hamilton. In fact with 20 seconds to go, the home five trailed by a scant 59-56 margin and it was still either team's game.

But Hamilton had the incentive of shooting for its 16th victory in 20 starts. When Jack Bell sank a foul shot and Ron Funari hit on a layup in those final 20 seconds, the victors were only one game short of tying the school's all-time basketball record. For its part, PHS dropped to 6-10.

To its credit, PHS never gave up. Unlike some of its previous games in which they stumbled in the second half, the Little Tigers outscored Hamilton, 34-33, in the final two periods. They were led by Wilbur Hines and Larry Madden with 19 points each and Jim Tucker with 12. No other PHS player scored more than two.

Early in the contest, Hamilton jumped to a 12-4 lead. But the home team scored the first seven points in the second quarter to take a short-lived 16-15 edge. Led by its standout performer, Bob Goleniecki, Hamilton rebounded with ten straight of its own and by half time led, 29-22, a margin PHS was never able to overcome.

The Princeton Jayvees had better luck, snapping a four-game winning streak of Hamilton's, in defeating the visitors, 71-58. John Underwood of PHS lead all scorers with 22. He was followed by Anthony Adams with 14. Coached by George Povilaitis, the Blue and White jayvees have lost only once this year.

Swimmers Win a Big One

D-Day was still two years in the future and Adolf Hitler still had three years to live when Princeton last defeated Harvard in swimming. That was the wartime winter of 1942.

On Saturday at Cambridge, Coach Bob Clotworthy and his 1964 Tiger swimmers conquered a highly-regarded Crimson team, 51 to 44. The score was tied at 44-all when the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, was announced.

The Princeton quartet left no doubt as to its intentions of wrapping up the decision: victory was achieved by Jed Graef, J. P. Smith, Bob Keck and John Kalmbach in 3:19.5, a new Princeton record.

HUN FINALE WEDNESDAY

Against Moorestown. The Hun School basketball team will play its final game of the season next Wednesday afternoon at Moorestown. Originally its encounter with Moorestown Friends was scheduled last Wednesday, but it was postponed because of last week's snowstorm.

The game will have an important bearing on the final standings in the Penn - Jersey League. Although Hun has lost four — two more than Moorestown and George School, the league leaders — Hun coach Bob Simpson reported that his team is "still alive." According to Simpson, Hun could still back into a tie but that is the most it can hope for.

Key to Simpson's hopes is a big possible assist from Pennington School, whose two victories over Hun knocked the Red and Black into third place. Simpson reported that both George School and Moorestown still have to meet Pennington on the latter's match-box court, which is a nightmare to visitors.

Said Simpson, "I really expect one or both of them to stumble at Pennington." Also giving substance to Hun's hopes for a tie is the realization that the two leaders must face each other. If Hun can ease by Moorestown, it may get very interesting before the season ends.

BOWLING NOTES

Firemen in Triple Tie. Mercer Engine Co. 3, Kingston and Dutch Neck are in a three-way tie for first place in the Tri-County Firemen's League with 32 wins each. Plainsboro is next with 26, and KFD and Lawrenceville are tied at 24 wins apiece.

High single game scorer in last week's competition was Bip Davison with a 226. Next was George Kirby with a 221 game.

Others at 200 or better were: Frank Stofko, who put a 214 and a 200 with a 192 for an individual high total score of 606; Dave Wilbur and Dick Anderson, 200 each.

Colonial Restaurant lengthened its lead over Johnson Electric in the Princeton Three-Man Classic, 47½ to 38. Tied for third are Papp's Pro Shop and Lahey's, 31½ wins each.

Bruce Hornstein's 256 led the individual game scoring, but Vince Graziano was high man for total with 224, 236 and 183 — 643. Other 200-plus scores for one game: Bill Dumble, 222, Joe Ruberto, 220, Jack Lucey, 219, Jerry Racioppi, 214, Mike Basile, 213, Joe Baldino, 205, Gene De Risi, 204, John Gray, 201.

Ivy Inn and Balestrieri are tied for first in the Princeton "B" at 26 games. In third place, with 24 wins each, are the Key Shop and the Sportsmen, followed by Jugtown Del with 20.

High single game score last week was a 245 by Bill Dumble. Mike Pinelli rolled a 212, and Jack Petrone and Harry Kalny both had single games of 200.

In the Nassau League, Thorne Pharmacy holds a two-game edge for first place with 22 wins to Grover Lumber's 20. Nassau Delicatessen and Decker's Dairy are tied for third at 18 wins.

Rudy Schultz and Val Ranallo tied at 214 for high single games. Others over 200: Andy Drummond, 211; Joe Baldino, 210; Frank Maddalon, 202, and Elmer Perantoni, 201.

The Princeton Business Women's League is led by Jefferson Plumbing with 82 games won. Second is Claridge Wine & Liquor, 72, and Nassau Shoe Repair is third at 62 wins.

High single game for the week was a 163 by Irma Wiban. Evelyn Walton rolled a 162 and a 157.

MUSIC In Princeton

GLEE CLUBS TO SING

With Soloists. The Princeton University Glee Club, under Walter Nollner, joined by the Choir of Mary Baldwin College, will present a program of music in McCarter Theatre this Sunday at 3:30.

The Mary Baldwin group will open the concert with a group of songs by Orlanito de Lasso and William Schuman, and the Princeton singers will follow with the "Gloria" from a mass by Josquin des Prez.

The Glee Club will also present the first Princeton performance of Andrew Imbrie's Two Christmas Carols for Male Chorus, written in 1955 and dedicated to the Lawrenceville Glee Club.

Mr. Imbrie, a former Princeton resident, is now professor of music at the University of California at Berkeley. He is a graduate of both Lawrenceville and Princeton.

For the second half of the program, the two choral groups have chosen Mozart's "Coronation" Mass with Joanna Richard, soprano; Rosemary Russell, contralto; Clarence Moore, tenor, and William Parker, baritone, as soloists. Featured in the Mozart work will be a chamber orchestra and McCarter's new organ.

CZECH TO PLAY

In Trenton Recital. Ivan Moravec, Czech pianist, will play a recital of compositions by Beethoven and Debussy this Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the Jewish Community Center Trenton.

Mr Moravec will play three Beethoven sonatas; Opus 90 in E Minor, Opus 13 in C Minor and Opus 27 No. 2 in C-sharp Minor. He will also play four preludes by Debussy, the "Claire de Lune" from the Suite Bergamasque and the Toccata from "Pour le Piano."

The pianist made his American debut with the Cleveland Orchestra under George Szell on January 30 of this year, and his New York debut with the Clevelanders on February 17.

LYNN'S WORK SET

First Symphony in Denver. George Lynn, faculty member of Westminster Choir College and music critic for TOWN TOPICS, will attend the premiere of his Symphony No. 1 when it is performed next Tuesday by the Denver Symphony conducted by Saul Caston.

The four-movement work was composed last year under a grant from the Martha Baird Rockefeller Foundation, was received through the American Music Center's Composers Assistance Program.

Dr. Lynn will also conduct a choral workshop for the National Fellowship of Methodist Musicians in Phoenix, and a high-school workshop in Scottsbluff, Neb.

THAT OLD-TIME SINGING

Gospel Choir Coming. "The Back Home Gospel Choir of the Greater Harvest Baptist Church is gospel music at its best and most free . . . gospel music in its most contagiously powerful form," said Nat Hentoff, the jazz and folk critic after hearing the Newark Choir.

The 75 voices of the choir will be heard in Dillon Gym next Saturday, March 7, at 2:30 as part of the Spring Folk Festival of McCarter Theatre and the Junior Prom Committee of the University.

The Rev. Charles Banks founded the choir from members of his church. Under the direction of Mr. Banks and his brother, the singers have not only sung at the Newport Jazz Festival, in Carnegie Hall, Madison Square Garden and Hunter College, but have also recorded for RCA.

In addition to the Gospel Choir, the Festival will offer the Tarriers, Rambling Jack Elliott and Jean Redpath. Tickets are on sale at the McCarter box-office and the University Store.

YOUNGSTERS TO PLAY

In Recitals. Three recitals by students at the New School for Music Study will be held this weekend at the school, 353 Nassau.

This Saturday at 4, the following students will play: Joseph Chang, Paul Hancik, Holly Housner, Richard Huber, Louise Hulner, Nal Hutner, Arthur Mendelson, Bruce LeLacheur, Tommy Navin, Randy Poinsett, Sanddra Poinsett, Michele Posner, Bruce Richmond, Evelyn Rivers, Thomas Stanley, Diane Steele and Raymond Steele.

On Saturday at 7:30, a program will be presented by Peggy Bayer, Carol Christopher, Nancy Farley, Jeanne Favreau, Allison Fickes, Patricia Gaynor, Helen Hahn, Holly Housner, Mary Johnson, Anne Merce, Barbara Osterlund, Virginia Osterlund, Alice Reed, Barbara Russo, Marla Schlaffer, Bonnie Silver, Robyn Steward, Jennifer Valley and Diana Waterous.

This Sunday at 4, the third group will play. Its members are: Ted Brenneman, Brenda Bruno, Eugene Chang, Joseph Chang, Tom Dickinson, Angeline Goreau, Kathleen Hendrickson, Ann Hiltner, Holly Housner, Howie Jackson, Kay Lane, Laura Lane, Don MacLachlan, Linda MacLachlin, Robyn Mager, Caroline Mason, Shelley Reed, Patti Sheeran, Gerri Shostaek, Monica Shostack, Peter Thompson and Robert Weinstein.

Judo Championships Here

Dillon Gymnasium will be the site on Saturday of a form of sport new to the intercollegiate scene. The third annual Eastern Intercollegiate Judo Championships will be held here, attracting some 150 contestants from 30 colleges.

Contestants in judo seek either to pin their opponents or to win a match with an "ippon," a clean throw. In recent years, the sport has been gaining increasing interest on college campuses, and is a recognized athletic activity at all three of the nation's service academies. Judo will be a part of the Olympic Games in Toyko next fall for the first time.

Saturday's competition will begin at 9 a.m. There is an admission charge of $1.

Person To Person

Cory S. Kammler

A young man asked, "Can you tell me what books to study to become a good used car appraiser?" We said, "That's a worthy goal for any young man, but frankly, we believe that all the words that could be written on the subject would be pointless without a follow-up of years of experience." We told him that some top used car men have come up via the route of being good mechanics, and others have learned their profession working with a good used car manager. And we pointed out that even the most expert appraiser gets fooled every once in awhile. Therefore, when you are trying to find a good used car it is far better to put yourself in the hands of a trustworthy dealer than actually to be an expert yourself . . . then any gamble invulved is shouldered by the conscientious dealer, who will never allow a customer to get "stuck." May we give you such invaluable peace of mind? Our values now are outstanding! Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, 921-2222.

News Of The CHURCHES

TO HOLD CHURCH RALLY

In Palmer Stadium. On Pentecost Sunday, May 17, New Jersey Presbyterians will hold a massive assembly at 4 p.m. in Palmer Stadium, honoring the state's Tercentenary.

The Rev. Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, dean of Princeton Seminary will deliver an historical sermon. A second address will be given by a Presbyterian layman who will "challenge the church from the pew."

A massed choir of a thousand voices, drawn from the Presbyterian churches of the state, will be directed by George Lynn, professor at Westminster Choir College Rehearsals will be held this spring in various areas.

The service has been planned to inform those attending of the past significance of Presbylerianism as well as to direct attention to current and future vital relationships.

CHURCH COMPLETED

First Service Sunday. The congregation of Hopewell Methodist Church will worship in their new sanctuary for the first time Sunday. The former church will be used for Christian education and fellowship.

The Rev. Edward Thorn will conduct the 11 a.m. service in the red brick, colonial-style church. Eight new members will be received. Refreshments will be served after the service, under the direction of Mrs. Judson White.

Consecration services on Palm Sunday will be led by the Rev. Dr. Franklin Buck, executive secretary of the Conference Board of Missions and former superintendent of the Camden district of the Methodist Church. A family dinner for members and friends is planned for 12:30 at the Hopewell Firehouse. Reservations must be made by March 11 with Mrs. Charles Edson, 466-2319, or Mrs. Scott Dansberry, 466-0356.

A nostalgic note will be supplied on Sunday, March 8, when the former pastor, the Rev. William Kingston, will conduct the morning worship. He is now serving the Roebling Methodist Church.

BULLETIN NOTES

Installation. The Rev. Robert A. Berringer will preach his first sermon as pastor of Hopewell Presbyterian Church at 11 on Sunday. His installation will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 12. The Rev. Dr. William Tucker, pastor emeritus of Second Presbyterian Church who has been serving as interim pastor at Hopewell, will return to Bound Brook Presbylerian as minister of visitation.

Leap Year. A "Lovers' Leap Year Dance" is planned by Trinity Teens for 8 to midnight this Saturday at the parish house, 33 Mercer Street. All young people of high school age are invited. Contribution is 50 cents.

A "Leap Year Chicken Buffet" will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. this Saturday at Rosedale Chapel, Carter Road. All are welcome. The cost is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Archaeologist. Dr. Phillip C. Hammond of Princeton Seminary will give an illustrated lecture, "The Place of Archaeology in Biblical Research" Sunday at Second Presbyterian Church. The program will follow the Lenten family night covered dish supper, set for 5:45 p.m.

Speaker. The Rev. Dr. William Dunkle of Grace Methodist Church, Wilmington, Del., will speak at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 4, in the chapel at Westminster Choir College. The author of "Values in the Church Year," he was a member of the rituals committee which compiled the Methodist "Book of Worship."

Methodist WSCS. Thomas R. Kelly will discuss "An American Spiritual Classic" at 10 a.m. next Thursday, March 5, before the Women's Society of Christian Service of Princeton Methodist Church. Mrs. Chesler McKinney is chairman, and members of Ashton-Marek Circle are hostesses.

Communion Breakfast. Witherspoon Lodge 178 and Rising Sun Temple 1199, Elks, will sponsor a communion breakfast this Sunday from 8:30 to 10:30 at Mt. Pisgah AME Church, Witherspoon and McClain Streets. The church's Junior Usher Board is in charge of preparations and serving. The public is invited.

Obituaries

Mrs. Margaret Kalmar Allison, 35, of Cherry Valley Road, died February 24 at her home.

Well-known here as an actress, Mrs. Allison had appeared on Broadway and on television. She was a member of the University Players and had acted with the Theatre Intime and the Community Players.

She was the wife of Robert F. Allison and the daughter of Mrs. Jessie Kalmar and the late Bert Kalmar. A brother Bert Kalmar, Jr. of Burbank, Calif., also survives.

The funeral will be held Thursday morning at the Cromwell Memorial Home, Hopewell. Requiem high mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. in St. Alphonsus Church, Hopewell, with interment in the parish cemetery.

tra Marks, 82, of 107 Moore Street, died suddenly on February 20. He was the husband of the late Clara Marks.

Born in Baltimore, Md., Mr. Marks was a former resident of Denver, Colo. He lived in Princeton for two months.

Surviving are a son, John Marks of Princeton; a daughter, Mrs. Maynard Dolton of Bellevue, Wash.; four grandchildren, and a brother, Sidney Marks of Baltimore.

Graveside services were conducted in Princeton Cemetery by Rabbi Everett Gendler of the Princeton Jewish Center. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Marion S. Forsyth, 85, of 240 Library Place, died February 21 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. She was the widow of Holmes Forsyth.

Born in Waterbury, Vt., Mrs. Forsyth was a former national vice-president of the Illinois Society of the Colonial Dames. She was the secretary of the Princeton chapter of the English-Speaking Union, a former president of the Present Day Club, and a member of First Presbyterian Church and its women's auxiliary.

Suriving are a son, William H. Forsyth of New York City, two sisters, Mrs. William Harris of Riverdale, N.Y., and Mrs. Frederick A. Wickett of Palo Alto, Calif.; and five grandchildren.

The service was held at First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. D. Donald M. Meisel officiating. The private interment was under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton Hospital Building Fund or to the Memorial Fund of First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Eleanor Altieri, 84, died February 23 at her home, 4 Chestnut Street. She was the widow of Andrew Altieri.

Born in Italy, Mrs. Altieri lived in Princeton for 35 years.

Surviving are two sons, John A. Altieri of Princeton and C Thomas Altieri of Trenton; a daughter, Mrs. Yolanda Rodweller of Princeton; a sister, Mrs. Stella Iorio of Moorestown; a brother, William Rosetti of Maplewood and two grandchildren.

Solemn requiem mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Annie Groendyke, 89, of 413 Stockton Street, Hightstown, died February 24 in Princeton Hospital.

Mrs. Groendyke was born in Plainsboro and had also lived in Dutch Neck. She and her husband, had celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary last month.

Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Ann Krug of Bordentown and Miss Margaret Groendyke of Hightstown; four sons, Raymond of Dutch Neck, Norman of Hopewell, Walter of Pompano Beach, Fla. and Alvin of Sparta; a foster son, John McGuckin of Mercerville; 12 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at the A. S. Cole Funeral Home, Cranbury, with the Rev. James Weaver of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Kingston Cemetery.

Sports In Princeton

St. Paul's scored perhaps its biggest victory of the season this year in the Mercer County C.Y.O. Grammar School Basketball League Sunday when it handed favored Blessed Sacrament a 20-14 defeat. The win was St. Paul's 10th in 14 games and improved its standing in the Southern Division.

Blessed Sacrament, leaders in the Northern Division with an 11-2 record, led throughout the first three quarters. Then in the final period, St. Paul's combined some superior rebounding and shooting to score nine points, while holding a surprised Sacrament squad scoreless.

For St. Paul's the victory was shared by an iron five who played the entire game. There were Italio Procaccino, who led his team with eight points, Tim Kerns (5), Mike Maguire (4), Jerry Fiabane (2) and Fred Leuper (1).

ETS WINS SEVENTH

At Harmon Nets 31. Paul Harmon of Educational Testing Service set a new individual scoring record in the Princeton YMCA Research and Industrial League last week by scoring 31 points to lead his teammates to a 75-46 victory over Princeton Hospital. Edgar Riddick tallied 24 for the losers.

In winning, ETS maintained its hold on second place in the league with a 7-2 record. Still in first place, however, is American Cyanamid which is undefeated in eight contests. Cynamid did not play last week.

In other games, Pete Wise scored 13 points as Astro A upended its counterpart, Astro B, 57-40. Jim Hogg's 10 was high for the losers. Western Electric took over third place with a 55-30 triumph over RCA, largely on the shooting of Roger Clark had 12 for RCA.

The standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Cyanamid	8	0	.1000
ETS	7	2	.778
Western El	5	3	.625
Astro A	6	4	.600
Astro B	4	4	.500
RCA Labs	0	8	.000
Hospital	0	9	.000

CONTRACTS AVAILABLE

For Midget Baseball. Midget baseball contracts are available now in all public and private schools, according to Robert Decker, Princeton YMCA Baseball Commissioner. All contracts must be returned to the Y office by March 14.

Starting its 15th season, the YMCA Midget League is designed to afford boys the opportunity to learn the fundamental skills of good baseball. To be eligible, a boy must be 10 years old and must not reach his 13th birthday by June 30, 1964

If you just baught an ecanamy car, don't read this — yau'll cry!

Chrysler's all-new economy car,
SIMCA 1000

*HERE ARE THE FACTS:
Chrysler Motors Corporation warrants all of the following vital parts of the Simca 1000 for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at an Authorized Simca Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, water pump, intake manifold, Trans-Axle parts and rear wheel bearings.
HERE'S ALL YOU MUST DO: Give your car this normal care—change engine oil and re-torque the cylinder head at first 600 miles and thereafter change engine oil every 3 months or every 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; clean oil separator every 6 months (spring and fall); clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and clean the crankcase ventilator valve oil filler cap and change Trans-Axle lubricant every 6 months, or 8,000 miles, whichever comes first; AND every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to an Authorized Simca Dealer or other Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

Are New Homes Sold . . or . . Bought?

When the time comes to move from one place to another, most of us look forward to the prospect with some trepidation. At best, relocating is done with mixed emotions; at worst, it is a traumatic experience. The strain usually begins when you get down to selecting a new home.

We believe that homes are always bought . . . not sold. A subtle distinction, perhaps, but the most expert salesperson cannot sell you a home that you do not like and the home that fills your requirements will be bought without any sales pressure.

At Princeton Ridge, our models are open every day from 9:00 in the morning until sunset. There are no salespeople "on duty." If our homes appeal to you, we believe that you will tell us directly.

When you are in the market for a full value home in the Princeton school district, please pay us a visit. If Princeton Ridge suits your taste, needs, and bank account, you will buy . . . not be sold . . . one of our homes.

PRINCETON ADDRESS . . . on the very edge of the Township, in a wooded area noted for its fine homes, this 4 bedroom house has a large living room with fireplace, dining room, the last word in kitchens and 2 baths. Immediate possession, if wanted. $32,000

HANDSOME TUDOR . . . what goes better with ivy in an Ivy town? Living room with fireplace, winterized porch, dining room, powder room. Second floor: 4 bedrooms, 1 bath. Third floor: 2 bedrooms, 1 bath. Here is a very pleasant, comfortable house for a large family. Large backyard, fine shrubbery. $38,000

RENTAL . . . half of a two-family house with living room, dining room, 4 bedrooms and 1 bath. $175

LUXURY RENTAL . . . fine Colonial, beautifully furnished. 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths. From July first. $350

EXCLUSIVE LISTING . . . this custom-built home, only 3 years old, and on a lovely quiet street offers 4 bedrooms, 3 full baths. And it is distinguished for the thoughtful care that went into its building, which provides charm for its hostess, a study for the master and romping room for all the moppets. $52,500

VERY DESIRABLE COLONIAL . . . here is a traditional two-story residence, the favorite of many Princetonians, with center hall, living room, library, dining room, screened porch, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths. In a fine Township location, it is ready for immediate occupancy. $45,000

ON THE LAKE . . . a beautiful 4 bedroom home with its own private dock for summer boating. Master suite has private study, tiled bath and a gorgeous view. Formal dining room, a kitchen that's the homemaker's dream, and a large game room for the children. Fully air-conditioned. $75,000

STUART HILL
Here is, perhaps, Princeton's very choicest new residential area. 2 acre plots, magnificently wooded. Adjacent to the new Stuart Country Day School, and off the Great Road. Water, sewer and all utilities installed, of course. Several plots available this year.

AN ARCHITECT HAD FUN —

NOW IT'S YOUR TURN

To revel in the luxuries of a well-thought-out and beautifully appointed modern house. Stunning living room opens through wall of thermopane to a floating deck overlooking a badminton court. In the winter, turn inward and enjoy the fireplace, walnut paneling, and floor-to-ceiling bookshelves. The dining room is big enough to stand a footman behind every chair, and the kitchen is fully—down to an electric can-opener—equipped. The three bedrooms are delightful and banked with closets. Both bathrooms are plush, but the master bath has a cork tile floor, gold-striped paper, and teal blue Venetian glass tiling. Every room is dramatically lit, some with sky lights, the house is centrally air conditioned, and there is a swimming pool. It's our favorite at

Town Topics

WE NOMINATE

Henry DeWolf Smyth, distinguished physicist and widely known as "representative, interpreter, and diplomat of science in the affairs of the Free World", who returns to TOWN TOPICS' cover as the seventh recipient of the highest honor Princeton University can confer upon an alumnus, the anonymously established Woodrow Wilson Award. This past Saturday, before an Alumni Day turn-out of 1,000, the 65-year old Smyth, a resident of this community since age 7, was singled out as "an outstanding exemplar of the Wilsonian concept of 'Princeton in the Nation's service' and indeed, in today's terms, in the service of mankind".

The first scientist to merit this award (consisting of a cash grant of $1,000) Smyth is one of the most able and perceptive of the American-born physicists and in the service of five Presidents of the United States has translated into action his conviction that "men of science may be used to add strength to the judgments of statesmen." A specialist in atomic structure, and a member of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission for 5 years, he is remembered by many for his lone, courageous dissent in the Commission's 4-to-1 vote to deny Robert Oppenheimer further access to secret information.

Smyth, probably the first Princetonian ever to combine United States ambassadorial rank with full-time active service in education, has been commuting for the past three years from his offices here to the Vienna-based International Atomic Energy Agency. As this country's Representative to this 77-nation organization, Smyth has been chairman of an 8-member Advisory Committee charged with evolving the first clear-cut American policy concerning a key agency which the United States has treated like a step-child since it helped sponsor its establishment in 1958 as an outgrowth of the Eisenhower "Atoms for Peace" doctrine.

A native of Clinton, N. Y., and the son of an eminent geologist called to Princeton in 1905 by Woodrow Wilson as one of his "Preceptor Guys", Smyth whirled through Princeton as a Phi Beta Kappa member of the Class of 1918, completed his graduate studies here, and went on to Cambridge (England) for a second Ph. D. and there shared laboratories with the Soviet Union's Kapitza and Japan's Nishina. He joined the Princeton faculty in 1924 and 12 years later, a year following his designation as Chairman of the Department of Physics, was elevated to a full professorship. Since 1959, with the rank of dean, he has presided over the University Research Board.

Smyth, a consultant to the "teams" which produced the A-Bomb, was called upon in 1944 to write the famous report which gave most Americans their first insights into the birth of the atomic age. He began this work with the idea that it might take weeks. "Atomic Energy", however, consumed some 15 months and was produced only after it had been subjected, paragraph by paragraph, to the most agonizing kind of security appraisal. Although nearly 200,000 copies have now been sold, Smyth has not profited. He put up the $2.00 for copyright, then relinquished the copyright, and today remains $2.00 out-of-pocket for a world-wide best-seller.

For "his clear-headed help in making science serve the public interest", for urging upon fellow scientists, as well as upon political and military leaders, his belief that "the strength of science, as well as of our free society, is based on freedom of inquiry, freedom of discussion, and freedom of dissent"; he is again our nominee as
